DESIGN

My name is Shona Andrew. I have worked in the book trade in both Paris and London for many years, in retail, wholesale and publishing. As Studio Manager at Faber and Faber I gained the design skills from the inside to launch a freelance career six years ago. I design book covers and market materials of all kinds. I have also expanded into marketing campaigns and corporate videos in the expanding digital sector. My graphic design and marketing skills combined give my clients the best opportunity to showcase their product to the right people. I also offer a complete branding package.

My website gives you a chance to view some samples of my work, please contact me to discuss your needs:
